

I think that the personal use and freedom issues stand for themselves. You have received many comments against the "Broadcast Flag" at this point, and I proudly add my name to the list of those who object to the idea of this pandering to the media publishers at the expense of the consumer.